NOTICE

Awareness and Understanding of Ordinance No. 14

All students of IET, DAVV are advised to carefully read and understand Ordinance No. 14 of Devi Ahilya Vishwavidyalaya, which governs important academic and examination-related provisions applicable to students.

Students should particularly understand the provisions relating to:

- Grading and evaluation system
- Passing requirements and minimum academic requirements
- ATKT and permissible number of backlogs
- Eligibility and conditions for progression to subsequent semesters/years
- Eligibility for appearing in examinations
- Examination and result-related provisions
- Review/revaluation and related procedures
- Improvement of performance, wherever applicable
- Calculation and interpretation of grades and academic performance
- Other provisions specifically applicable to Engineering students/programmes

Students must pay special attention to the clauses, provisos, exceptions and special conditions prescribed specifically for Engineering programmes, as some provisions may differ from those applicable to other programmes of the University.

As a regular academic practice, the important provisions of Ordinance No. 14 are also explained to newly admitted students during the Induction Programme. However, such orientation should not be treated as a substitute for reading and understanding the Ordinance itself.

Important: Examination Eligibility and Backlog Limit

Students are specifically advised to verify their eligibility for appearing in an examination in accordance with Ordinance No. 14, particularly the provisions relating to ATKT and the maximum permissible number of backlogs.

Mere appearance in an examination does not confer eligibility upon a student. If a student appears in an examination without fulfilling the eligibility requirements prescribed under Ordinance No. 14, including the applicable limit on backlogs, his/her answer books shall not be evaluated/result shall not be processed, as applicable under the Ordinance and University rules.

Therefore, every student must ensure before appearing in an examination that he/she fulfils all applicable eligibility and progression requirements. Students should not presume eligibility merely because an examination form/admit card has been generated or because they have been permitted to enter the examination process.

PB

Every student is expected to be familiar with the academic regulations governing his/her programme. Lack of awareness of the provisions of the Ordinance cannot subsequently be treated as a ground for claiming relaxation in matters relating to grades, ATKT, backlog limits, eligibility, progression, review or other examination-related matters.

Students are therefore advised to read the complete and latest applicable Ordinance carefully and preserve it for reference throughout their programme.
